PSALM 130

PSALM 130

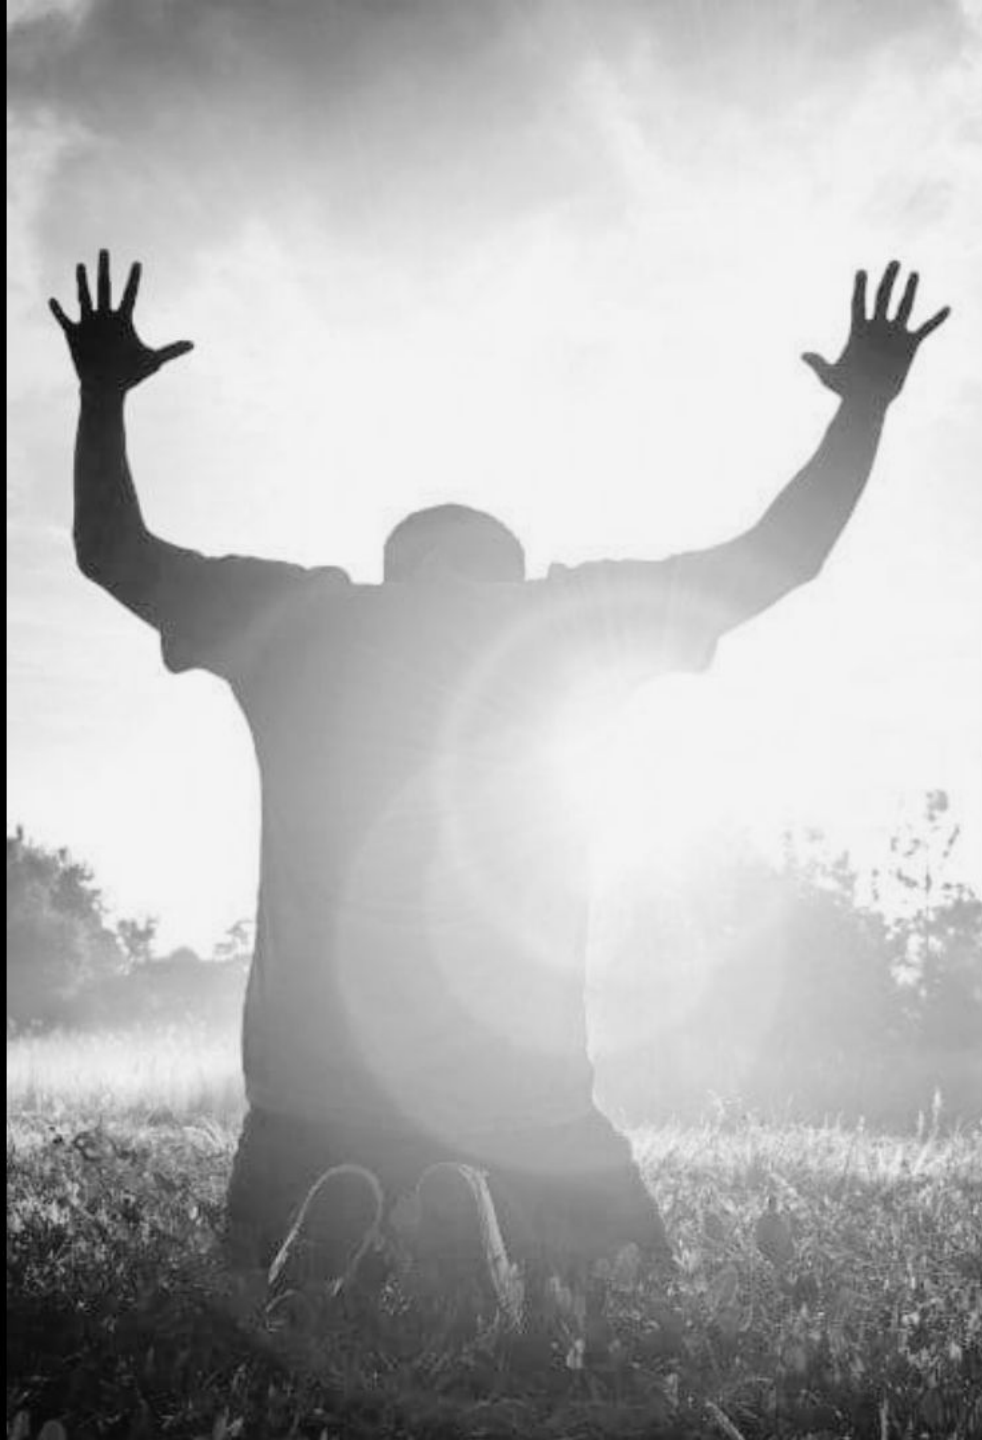

1 Out of the depths I cry to you, Lord; 2 Lord, hear my voice. Let your ears be attentive to my cry for mercy. 3 If you, Lord, kept a record of sins, Lord, who could stand? 4 But with you there is forgiveness, so that we can, with reverence, serve you. 5 I wait for the Lord, my whole being waits, and in his word, I put my hope. 6 I wait for the Lord more than watchmen wait for the morning, more than watchmen wait for the morning. 7 Israel, put your hope in the Lord, for with the Lord is unfailing love and with him is full redemption. 8 He himself will redeem Israel from all their sins.

2 Lord, hear my voice.
Let your ears be attentive to my cry
for mercy.

JOHN WESLEY

I purposed to keep His whole law, both inwardly and outwardly. By this would I be accepted by Him, and therefore saved ...

Accordingly, in all, I aimed at the image of God by doing His will, not my own. Yet after continuing some years in this way, I found myself near death. All my holiness brought me no comfort or assurance of acceptance with God. I was very surprised at this.

"What a wretched man I am." (Romans 7:24)

PERHAPS OUR DESPERATE NEED IS NOT, FIRST OF
ALL, TO EXPERIENCE FORGIVENESS BUT TO EXPERIENCE THE GRAVITY
OF SIN.

Scott Grant

“Seek a broken heart for sin, for without that there is no meeting with Christ.”

SAMUEL RUTHERFORD

A heart unbroken over sin may choose Christ, at least in an outward sort of way, while still cherishing thoughts of another. But a broken heart has come to feel sin as its greatest burden and shame, and therefore resists Christ's rivals with a force far greater than mere self-control: the force of holy revulsion.

Scott Hubbard

17 My sacrifice, O God, is a broken spirit: a broken and contrite heart
you, God, will not despise.

Psalm 51

3 He heals the broken-hearted and binds up their wounds.

A circular graphic with a mountain landscape background. The landscape features rugged, rocky mountains with patches of snow and a valley below. A dark horizontal band runs across the center of the circle, containing white text. The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and reads: "4 But there is forgiveness with You, that You may be feared." The background image is a high-angle view of a mountain range, with the foreground showing a valley with some snow and a small stream or path. The mountains are rocky and have some snow patches. The sky is a pale blue. The overall tone is dramatic and majestic.

4 But there is forgiveness with
You, that You may be feared.

None fear the Lord like those who have experienced His forgiving love. Gratitude for pardon produces far more fear and reverence of God than the dread of punishment.

(Charles Spurgeon)

God shows this mercy, not that men may think lightly of sin, but that they may magnify His compassion, and pay Him the reverence due to His Name.
